

“ ”

Olivier Staquet

Chief Technology
Officer, Gabi SmartCare

The end-user must be at the center of the development process. This is even more important when considering the unique needs of the pediatric population. It involves not just the young patients but also their families and care providers. The recommendations in this playbook serve as practical guidelines that you can use to create impactful digital health solutions.